A Radical Theory On Women

One Criticism of Marxist Feminism is that women ' s oppression within the family existed before capitalism and in communist societies. Radical Feminism Radical Feminists see society and its institutions as patriarchal — most of which are dominated and ruled by men — men are the ruling class and women the subject class. Gender inequalities are the result of the oppression of women by men, and it is primarily men who have benefited from the subordination of women.

As they see it, the problem within a patriarchal society is that of gender inequality. Radical feminists firmly believe that we must transform the entire basis of society towards a celebration of feminine values and virtues. Only by opposing centuries of patriarchal oppression can society be reordered along a matriarchal basis. Under a more gynocentric approach, women could enjoy fulfilling and meaningful relationships without the need for men.
