Whether they graphically depict an individual's or a community's beliefs, express the defiance of authority, or brand marginalized groups, tattoos are a means of interpersonal communication that dates back thousands of years. Evidence of the tattoo's place in today's popular culture is all around—in advertisements, on the stereotypical outlaw character in films and television, in supermarket machines that dispense children's wash-away tattoos, and even in the production of a tattooed Barbie doll. This book explores the tattoo's role, primarily as an emblem of resistance and marginality, in recent literature, film, and television. The association of tattoos with victims of the Holocaust, slaves, and colonized peoples; with gangs, inmates, and other marginalized groups; and the connection of the tattoo narrative to desire and violence are discussed at length.

For the sake of Ol' Blue Eyes, a pilot searches California for the woman they both love When World War II ended, fighter ace Joe Buonomo didn't make it back for the parades. After nearly a decade adrift in troubled seas, he washed up in California, determined to re-claim his life. In 1954, he met Helen, one of the fresh-faced girls eager to break into Hollywood. They fell blissfully in love and got engaged—until Joe's post-war past intervened, and he lost his fiancée. Years later, Joe's running an air freight business and doing the occasional odd job for a certain crooner named Frank Sinatra. One afternoon, Joe agrees to give Sinatra's latest honey a lift to Los Angeles, where she has a screen test the next morning. Not until she arrives at the airport does he realize it's Helen. After just a few hours together, Joe and Helen confess their old feelings still burn. But the next day, Helen never makes it to the studio. She's vanished into thin air. To find her, Joe will have to go up against the mob, the FBI, and the forces behind presidential candidate John F. Kennedy. The only catch is, who is he rescuing her for—Sinatra? Or himself?

Fathers' Wit collects some of the funniest observations ever made on the august institution of fatherhood. Every phase is up for comment--from conception to diaper-changing, family holidays to first dates, weddings to bankruptcy. Pearls of wit and wisdom are offered up by fathers who have been there, done that, and had the drool-stained T-shirt. But dads don't have all the say: the paternal view is carefully balanced by pithy commentary from the family members who put up with them. Fathers old and new will be royally entertained; and if the rest of the family can pry the book out of his hands, they'll gain valuable insights into workings of dear old dad.

The writing of this book goes back some 14 years ago, reading a book, Out Of The Garden - Toys and Children's Culture In to The Age Of TV Marketing, By Stephen Kline. This would show how through Children programming, its popular culture, advertisers, and marketers, through market strategy get us to buy their products. I knew from the beginning that it would be a hard sell, to try and give you a heads up, into how we all be doped, coned, persuaded into wanting you to know how this happened, and played a big part in everyone life, at any given age or generation you were part of. As I put it, "When you were born, your story begins!" We all know the news event of each decade and the popular Movies and music. But did you have any ideas how we all (each decade) unfolds, how our spending habits came to be, what were the influences, how you drove your parents crazy into buying what you wanted. And your parent themselves, and buy public itself, into buying their next purchase. I hope you can see the pattern. You and I, are so different, but I'm sure very much the same, we just have our own story to tell.

Former hillbilly jug band legend "The Total Package" Braiiian Ruuska has released his first collection of short stories, entitled Is You Is Or Is You Ain't My Baby? Here's what people are saying: "It's not a trajectory of separation, it's an orbit." -Dewitt Henry "Ruuska? I hired him to paint my fence in '96, but he ran away before he finished. made off with my best paintbrush and some cornbread that was a cooling on the windowsill. Paint my fence, you carpetbagger!" -Sven Loob "You can't buy chewing gum anywhere is Singapore, but you can buy peppermint candy because you eat it till it's gone. Ah, Singapore." -Naoko Yamano "Ruuska writes prose that way it should be written, that is, with one elbow in a bowl of warm broth and the other resting triumphantly upon the smoldering carcass of pragmatism." -John Updike "When you really need them the most, that's when rock 'n' roll dreams come true." -Meatloaf "If 100 bellybuttons were lined up against a wall, I could definitely pick out which one is mine." -Madonna
