No Struggle for Existence, No Natural Selection

Silence, the Phenomenon and Its Ontological Significance

We often see "RIP" or "Rest in Heaven" for people that we have spent precious time with before they passed. What about those that pass before they had a chance to exhale their first breath before or right after birth? This is known as miscarriage, stillbirth, or late-term pregnancy loss. This is a loss that any type of woman can experience but often feel guilty, alone, and feel fearful to speak about. A group of brave, powerful, and extraordinary women open up and speak out about their heartbreaking experience losing a child during or after pregnancy and how they found the strength to move forward.

Heidegger and Wittgenstein, the Poetics of Silence

A study of Dylan's lyric writing by someone who is, both a fan of the performer and schooled in the, appreciation of poetic expression, this volume, covers everything from the early protest songs, to his more mature look at relationships on the, album Blood on the Tracks. the latter part of the, book examines how the older Dylan created a new, song-writing style - a process that began with the, nursery-rhyme-drenched Under the Red Sky and, evolved via his two nineties cover albums to, emerge triumphant in 2001 on Love and Theft.

Served in Silence

Although the title of this book indicates One parents story, struggle its actually about the battle between all parents and teens; or simply adults and teens in general. I say battle, but it has actually risen to the potential for what I call generational warfare. Basically, teenagers have little respect for adults; especially parents. The protocol is simple; and yes most adults do recall progressing strategically in the same way during their own youth. Even before were born; we make demands. Then after weve grown a few years; we make many more demands. By the age of ten to thirteen, we more than expect those demands to unquestionably be met. Finally by the last 3 to 5 years of youth while living at home with our parents; weve assessed who our biggest enemy is and how we would like to take down who we now see as both an enemy, and a dictator. Simply put: after youve bitten the hand that feeds you for so long; that hand begins to appear useless. And once that represents uselessness; the person behind that outreaching hand, also serves no purpose to you. So the stage is set. Teenagers wont look back with any sense of appreciation; and parents, who also continued to grow; will look back and wonder: was it all worth it. Many are optimistic, while others are in denial. But most can only feel one thing: What was I thinking.

New Times

When night comes, look at the sky. If you see a falling star, dont wonder why, just make a wish. Trust me, it will come true, because I did and found Jesus Christ. Sometimes we think that things will never change in life. I dont know anyone who has not yet experienced pressure of one kind or another in life. It may raise its head swiftly and unexpectedly. Or we may see and feel it coming slowly but surely, like a slight crack in the wall of a building going up or down. You might arrive late for some event and miss something special. This is a minor pressure, and it usually does not last long; its an everyday occurrence that does not really matter very much. There are many such pressures. On the other hand, the pressure of realising that the dream you had has failed to come true may overcome you. You may feel depressed because of the loss of your spouse, the chaos in the workplace, the loss of friends, or the insincerity of those you considered friends, a lack of understanding on the part of your family, heartache that never seems to end, or feeling that God does not hear your prayer. There are more types of pressure than there is grass growing on the plains of the Highveld. Do not give up when you still have something to give. I know that through Christ I am strong enough to make all my dreams come true. I know love, therefore I give love. I recognise that my love has great value and must be reciprocated. If my unconditional love is taken for granted, it doesn't disappear. I am quite capable of articulating my needs. I know that with God the world is my playground, but without God I will just be played with. I understand that my life experiences are merely lessons meant to bring me closer to self-knowledge and unconditional self-love. I know that I will at times have to inspire others to reach the potential God gave them. I know my past, understand my present and face my future. I am not afraid of tomorrow for I have seen yesterday and I love today. Jim Rohn says that happiness is not something you postpone for the future; it is something you design for the present.
