Diary — Anna Delvey Diaries

Many prison inmates are guilty of common crimes penalized also in other countries, but often they were committed out of economic necessity, e.g. illegal border crossing, stealing food or illegal trading. There are around 15–20 reeducation camps in North Korea. Two camps are documented with coordinates, satellite images and testimonies of former prisoners. Re-

Bing: Surviving Thriving In Prison A

Not only was I surviving, I was thriving. And if I can do it, so, most likely, can you. First and foremost: get out of suicide watch/mental observation as soon as you possibly can—it's neither a good look, nor something you want to be remembered by. That's where the real crazies end up, unless they manage to fool the staff into thinking otherwise, and if you aren't dying to learn
